

Miss Ari Photography is looking for a few good interns...

Are you interested in photography?

Do you appreciate an environment where creativity is ALWAYS welcomed?

Are you dependable and trustworthy?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, we have the perfect opportunity for you. During the 2013-2014 academic year, Ariawna “Miss Ari” Talton is looking for a group of creative and dependable interns to help her growing studio.

This is not an internship where you’ll be fetching coffee and running copies. Instead of boring office work, you’ll help Miss Ari with the development of social networking, marketing strategies, production of a magazine, video blogs and of course you’ll have several opportunities to learn photography.

We’re looking for at least three interns, and we’re willing to accept up to five. The interns must have reliable transportation to and from Miss Ari’s Duncanville studio. Those selected will have a certain weekday assignment and pre-arranged duties, however, this is a ‘go with the flow’ business, so some days you might arrive from school and we hop in the work truck to cover a downtown Dallas shoot!

We just ask that you be ready to have fun, be creative and earn our trust quickly. The ideal candidates WILL NOT have a hint of shyness. We LOVE personality! This is a non-paying internship, however, those selected will receive community service, complimentary senior portraits, a college essay-writing workshop and a ton of experience.

Applications should be printed, signed and mailed to the address below by August 15, 2013:
